Campus Solicitations Policy

Campus departments and groups have a window of opportunity to partner with the Office of University Development to raise needed funds for their students.

From April 1 to July 31 each year, the resources of the development office will be available for solicitations of restricted gifts to benefit departments, groups and teams.

The Office of University Development is here to partner with campus colleagues to help secure funds needed to serve Oswego’s students.

While its efforts for much of the year are focused on raising unrestricted annual gifts that support the college where the need is greatest, it is available to help with special needs and opportunities that present themselves. During the spring months, when the fiscal year for The Fund for Oswego is winding down, the development office’s resources are made available for other campus fundraising activities.

The Office of Alumni Relations and the Office of University Development maintain up-to-date mailing lists for more than 85,000 alumni and friends of the college, and more than 40,000 accurate email addresses. They also maintain a comprehensive calendar of solicitations and email messages targeted to various audiences. Departments sending a solicitation within the window of opportunity can make use of these valuable resources to reach the greatest number of potential donors.

Memorial gifts are handled on a case-by-case basis, since timing is often important when friends and family memorialize a loved one.

Simple forms and procedures are available online at www.oswego.edu/giving/employees and a copy of the Campus Solicitations Policy is attached. Further inquiries can be made by calling 312-3003 or emailing develop@oswego.edu.

While the everyday efforts of the Office of University Development are targeted at providing funding for programs that state support and tuition alone can’t cover, helping campus partners raise money for specific goals is one more service the office provides.

The Office of University Development partners with the various departments and groups to optimize campus resources in an effort to collectively engage our alumni while soliciting and securing unrestricted gifts for The Fund for Oswego.

The following guidelines are intended to ensure the efficient and effective operation of the Office of University Development’s solicitation efforts and to maximize the campus' potential for receiving philanthropic support.
Solicitation Approval and Process
Any person, department or group wishing to fundraise must complete a Request Form: Solicitation of Philanthropic Gifts. This form is obtained from the Office of University Development and must be approved by the Department Chair, Dean, Provost or Vice President and subsequently approved by the Office of University Development and the Vice President for Development and Alumni Relations.

Mailing/E-mailing Materials
All mailing materials and e-mail text must be reviewed and approved by the Office of University Development before they are printed, mailed or e-mailed. This will ensure:
- The message meets SUNY Oswego standards
- The message is appropriate to general fund raising principles
- Pledge card information is accurate and complete
- The giving website is included to encourage online gifts
- No goods or services can be promised in exchange for a gift
- Return envelope is included with the mailing.

Once the solicitation is approved:
- A meeting will be set up with a representative of the department requesting the solicitation and the Director of Annual Giving to lay out the proposed timeline and to further discuss details.

The University Development Office can provide technical assistance as follows:
- Provide mailing numbers.
- Facilitate sending e-mail solicitations based on mutually agreeable dates.
- When the mailing is prepared the Development office will then forward the mailing list to the campus mail department.
- If the planned mailing is to be personalized, i.e. Dear Mark,…(we need to plan on how to proceed with the mailing list).

Cost of Solicitations
All department solicitations are at the expense of the department, group, and/or their own School or College. Incurred cost may include:
- Printing
- Mail processing
- Postage and business return postage where applicable
- Design
- Stationery
- Telephone
- Supplies

In the event that the University Development Office is printing the solicitation, the department will be billed for all costs incurred

- No credit card gifts can be accepted by the soliciting department (even if they have the means to process the gift).
